

Accident Prevention in the Workplace Series

Our Accident Prevention in the Workplace Series is a sequence of safety classes designed to prevent accidents in the workplace. In our series, we identify the hazards occurring at your workplace and use these hazards to plan training topics. Preventing injuries in your workplace will save you money by lowering Workers' Compensation claims. Our series is grouped together in related topics and can be mixed if needed. The APW program is designed so that you can pick your topics from the menu or we can assist you in developing a training plan.

The Accident Prevention in the Workplace "Training Plan" begins with a visit to your company by the NC Industrial Commission Safety Education Section Safety Representative to explain the program. The program consists of three parts:

1. PLAN: Involves meeting with Safety personnel and/or safety committees, review of accident history, plant tours, and photography for hazard identification. We will develop a suggested training plan for your workplace.
2. TRAIN: The Safety Education Section will schedule a date and time to train at your site.
3. PREVENT: This is a program in action! Through the training of hazard identification and accident prevention, the workplace can be free of accidents, therefore reducing Workers' Compensation claims and costs.
