

Alan G. Finkel MD FAAN FAHS

Dr Finkel Received his medical degree from SUNY at Buffalo, School of Medicine, Buffalo, completed residency in Neurology at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and a Fellowship in Pain Management and Headache Medicine in 1990. He is Board Certified in Neurology, Pain Medicine and is a Diplomate in Headache Medicine through the United Council for Neurologic Subspecialties where he was a Director from 2004 – 2009. He is currently in private practice at the Carolina Headache Institute in Chapel Hill, NC and is the founder, President and CEO of the Carolina Headache Foundation. He is a Consultant/Contractor for the Henry Jackson Foundation and the Defense Veterans Brain Injury Centers at Fort Bragg/Womack Army Medical Center in Fayetteville, North Carolina where he treats and studies military post traumatic headache. He holds adjunct professorships in Psychiatry, Anesthesiology and Dentistry at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he directed the University Headache Clinic from 1993 to 2009. Awards and Honors include: Castle Connolly America's Top Doctors, The Leading Physicians of the World, Top Doctors for Women" Women's Health Magazine and he was awarded the John R Graham Senior Clinicians' Forum Award of the American Headache Society in 2006 for his work establishing the subspecialty of Headache Medicine. Offices held include Chair of the Post-Traumatic Headache Section of AHS and he was a past chair of the Headache and Face Pain Section of the AAN. Current interests include health care policy, Headache Medicine and work in military post traumatic headache and Brain Injury Medicine.